Shreveport Traffic

How About Help for

Stock Show Caravan

Notable report on progress is the newly-discovered fact (for me) that the State Highway Commission now has the Hope-Shreveport road fully paved except for 10 miles from Lewisville south.

This 10-mile stretch represents a re-routing of State Highway 29, magnificently straight and wide. The dump is complete, they are finishing the last minor bridge or two, and are graveling the roadbed. It will now this road will cover the 10 miles to Shreveport in a little over an hour and a half, and when the 10-mile new section is paved next year it will be wholly dustless.

Completion of paved State 29 means much to us in the way of business and tourist traffic. Specifically, we have a major city just south of us, Shreveport, and it generates a good deal of automobile travel to Hot Springs and the East. But you only have to look once at the highway maps to realize that when this traffic was forced upon the roundabout route through Texarkana much of it inevitably sifted eastward along U. S. 30 in Louisiana before turning north, thus missing our section entirely.

But the combination of Louisiana 10 and Arkansas 29, through Plain Dealing and Lewisville, is the straight, short, and natural route from Shreveport to the North and East, catching the trunk highway U. S. 67 in Hope.

Your writer expects to make the Third District Stock Show promotion tour which leaves Hope at 7:30 Wednesday morning and it would be a good idea for a lot of other business folks to join the caravan too.

Our regional stock show is one of Hope's greatest community assets and we want to hang onto it and see it grow and prosper. From the larger viewpoint it is an asset which belongs to all the southwestern counties, located in Hope simply because of our central site. But all the district shows this year are handicapped by uncertainty over state funds. Therefore it is important that each district do an outstanding job in behalf of its particular show in 1953.

The caravan leaves Hope at 7:30 a.m. Wednesday, goes to Nashville to pick up the Howard county delegation, then returns here and heads east for Prescott and Gurdon, finally swinging south to Camden and back home by way of Magolia.

In addition to the business folks' own transportation there have to be cars for the band youngsters, and so it would be a good community deed to call up Show Manager Bob Shivers at once and offer to help with the motor caravan which goes forth representing our section and its show.

J. P. Brundidge Moves Back Here From Spa

J. P. Brundidge, 77, well known local real estate owner, has moved back to Hope after a 17-year residence at Hot Springs and is remodeling a house at 316 S. Walnut for his future home here. Temporarily he is living at 312 S. Walnut.

Mr. Brundidge formerly was a major operator in cotton when the Hope long-staple product had a special listing on the Liverpool (Eng.) exchange; and later he invested in real estate, one of his early undertakings in the 1920's being the reconstruction of the original Saenger theater from the ruins of the burned Alice theater and hotel — on the same site now occupied by the new Saenger.

VFW to Meet, Repair Stand

All members of the VFW post are urged to be at the organization's concession stand at Fair park tonight at 7:30 and come prepared for work. The stand is in need of repairs and the help of all is asked.

Extended Forecast

Arkansas: Temperatures will average near normal. Normal minimum 80-71. Normal maximum 80-87. Warmer Thursday and north portion Wednesday. Precipitation, light north portion occurring as scattered showers about Thursday and little or none elsewhere.

Hero's Welcome Will Be Given Lt. Max Murphy Thursday at 3 p.m. With Downtown Parade

Thursday, September 24, has been designated Lt. Max Murphy Day in Hope and citizens of this city will honor him with a parade and program scheduled to start at 3 p.m.

Lt. Murphy, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Murphy, was a prisoner of the Communist Chinese for 16 months. He suffered wounds before captured and it was many months before his parents learned that he was even alive.

From San Francisco, where he landed Sunday, Lt. Murphy notified his parents late Monday that he would arrive via plane in Texarkana at 9:30 a.m. Wednesday.

At Texarkana Wednesday he will be met by representatives of the local American Legion and VFW Posts and a Marine Corps contingent from the Texarkana Marine Recruiting service.

A speaking platform will be erected at the corner of Main and Second in downtown Hope and ceremonies will start promptly at 3 p.m. Thursday. The parade will include a Marine Corps contingent from Texarkana, the local National Guard Unit, the Hope High School Band, and automobiles carrying Lt. Murphy and his family.

Through cooperation of the Merchants Association the parade and program, the welcome home for Lt. Murphy is a communitywide undertaking of the VFW, Legion, Chamber of Commerce, Merchants Association and the Ministerial Alliance.

Important Crusade Underway to Get Restaurants to Label Dishes With Leal Names

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — Count that day lost whose low descending sun sees no old crusade abandoned — or no new crusade begun.

We live in crusading times. No matter what a fellow sets out to do today it ends up as a crusade. Yes, whether he's simply seeking world peace, merely demanding a return to the gold standard, just trying to save the whooping crane, or seriously looking for a place to park his car.

That's what is so interesting about Sir Alexander H. Maxwell's crusade. With typical English understatement, Sir Alexander, chairman of the British Travel and Holiday's Association, doesn't even call his program a crusade at all. But his goal is to do something about British restaurant cooking — and to millions of world tourists that sounds like one of the most worthwhile crusades of history.

Where Sir Alexander's crusade

Youth Center Meets, Names New Officers

The Youth Council met yesterday and elected the following officers for the 1953-54 season: President, Frank Horton; vice-president, Ginny Herndon; secretary, Dana Cunningham; treasurer, Joy Coffee; reporter, Carolyn Coffee; Decorating Committee Chairman, Laverne Cooper.

Definite needed improvements for the Youth Center building were decided upon in the event that public donations are ample. Weekly meetings will be held every Thursday afternoon with Tuesday night being set aside for square dancing practice.

Much enthusiasm is being shown toward the development of the Youth Center and again the public is urged to cooperate wholeheartedly.

Durkin Accuses Ike of Reneging on Agreement

By ALAN DAMS
ST. LOUIS, Mo. (UP) — Former Secretary of Labor Martin P. Durkin today directly accused President Eisenhower of reneging on a private agreement to support major changes in the Taft-Hartley law.

Durkin asserted that the President last month had "fully agreed" to go along with 10 proposed amendments to the labor-management law. However, he said Mr. Eisenhower later "changed his position" and declined to send Durkin's proposals to Congress.

The 59-year-old AF of L Plumber's union president gave a blow-by-blow description of the back ground leading to his resignation in a speech prepared for delivery before the 72nd National AF of L convention, Durkin is attending as a plumber's delegate.

While Durkin pinpointed his differences with the President, his remarks were mild in tone. He pointed out that "I have only the warmest personal feelings of friendship for the President."

The Taft-Hartley issue, he said, was a "matter of principle." He said he advised the President he could not remain as labor secretary because "I could not disavow my principles at this late date in my life."

Durkin said his amendments were drafted into a presidential message to go to Congress on July 31, but that this plan was dropped because of the death of Sen. Robert A. Taft that day. Three days later, he added, the message was "leaked" to the press and "substantial opposition" developed.

He said the "White House staff" then appeared reluctant to send a message, but that on Aug. 19, President Eisenhower, in a private meeting, "fully agreed to my position. He agreed we should go right ahead."

President Urges Bankers to Plan Sound Policies

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower urged the American Bankers Association today to see policies that are "sound for all Americans—not for just one class, group or segment, but for all."

The president received a tremendous ovation of applause, whistles and cheers from the 3,000 bankers and their wives who filled Constitution Hall for his brief message of welcome to their convention.

He thanked them for "splendid work in helping to sell and distribute the government's savings bonds to all people."

"With more than 40 million people owing more than 50 billion dollars worth of bonds, we know there is still an incentive and a determination to save — an incentive that is responsible for so many good things we enjoy," Eisenhower said.

U. S. Has the Votes to Stop Red Demands

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) — The United States today won the first round of its fight to keep the U. N. General Assembly from reopening debate on the inclusion of neutral countries in the Korean peace conference.

Chief U. S. Delegate Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr., however, said in a surly statement that the representatives of the U. N. and the Communists at the conference might decide themselves whether they want to invite any nonbelligerents.

Lodge also offered "in view of the urgency of the situation" to send a United States representative to Geneva, Honolulu or San Francisco to discuss arrangements with a representative of the Communists.

Soviet Delegate Andrei Y. Vishinsky promptly turned down the U. S. proposals as a "chess move." British Minister of State Selwyn Lloyd said Vishinsky's reaction resembled him of the Soviet delegate's statement in Paris in 1951 when he said he stayed awake all night laughing at a Western disarmament plan. Lloyd reminded Vishinsky that he later regretted that statement.

After hearing this exchange, the Assembly's 15-member steering committee voted to reject a Soviet proposal that the Korean conference be put on the agenda as a separate item. The vote was two in favor, eleven against and one abstaining. (U. S. Russia and Poland voted for inclusion of the item. India, sitting in the chair did not vote. Yugoslavia abstained.)

Vishinsky had warned that rejection of his proposal might wreck any chances of agreement at the conference.

The Soviet delegate was expected to seek a reversal of this decision in the assembly itself, but appeared to have little chance. In any event, delegates agreed, the question can be brought up under a general item on the Korean problem.

In advancing his new position on the participation of neutrals, Lodge said: "The question of whether any neutrals will be invited as the North Korean note declares, is a matter for agreement between both sides."

But no one expected the Communists to give up.

Symington Says Airforce Behind Reds

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Sen. Stuart Symington (D-Mo.) said today this country is "falling steadily behind the airpower buildup of the Soviet Union" because of administrative cuts in air force funds.

The former air force secretary in the Truman administration said in an address prepared for delivery at the annual AFL convention that the new administration's defense officials have tried to minimize the cuts.

He said Secretary of State Dulles has promised the United States will meet any renewed Soviet aggression "with a bold show of military might" but reducing the air force budget by more than five billion dollars will make it hard to carry out the pledge.

"This is an historic reversal of Teddy Roosevelt's classic advice — to speak softly and carry a big stick," Symington said. "Now the secretary of state is speaking loudly, while the secretary of defense whittles away our big stick."

Four-City Group Here to Ask Water Rights in Millwood Dam

Gov. Cherry to Pay Visit to Livestock Show

Governor Francis Cherry will be special guest of the Third District Livestock Show Tuesday night, September 29, it was announced today by Bob Shivers, show manager.

The Governor will make a short talk at 7:30 p.m. in the Coliseum, prior to the second performance of the stage show.

This year's show will present a galaxy of stars from stage, screen, radio and TV who will perform Monday and Tuesday nights. The following four nights will feature a rodeo.

The rodeo is considered tops and features the 105 Ranch gang, some of the top cowboys in the United States competing for $800 purse plus entrance fees.

Along with the rodeo will be the famous 105 Ranch quadrill, trick riders Diane Lane of Little Rock, Barbara Geddes, Tucson, Arizona; Anna Belle Duggan of the Broken Wheel Ranch and Barbara Sutton of Fort Worth, Texas; Chudy, the gladiator girl of the Ozarks and her dancing mule, Beverly Harnett and the canine revue, trick rider Jean Grant of Hollywood and her jumping horse; Dub and Bud Grant, young trick and fancy ropers.

The midway will feature the United Exposition shows and a free elephant act. Besides the many merchants exhibits and industrial and mechanical displays a feature will be the Arkansas Game and Fish Commission exhibit.

The stage show, with the famous Candy Candido as master of ceremonies, will be within financial reach of everyone. Guest tickets admitting one to the show are currently being given away, free of charge, by the merchants of Hope. All you have to do is ask for them.

Manager Shivers also announced that School Day is planned for Friday, October 2 at which time all students will be admitted free of charge and all rides on the midway will be reduced.

MIG Pilot Tells of Red Violations

By VICTOR KENDRICK
FROM OUR WIRE SERVICES
SEOUL, Korea — An escaped North Korean fighter pilot said today the Reds are convinced the Korean war will explode again and are preparing for it by flying new jet bombers, fighters and other war planes into North Korea in violation of the armistice agreement.

The 22-year-old pilot, Lt. Noh Koon Suk, who flew his Russian-built MIG 15 jet fighter to an American airbase and requested political asylum, said the new planes are being brought into North Korea by Russian pilots. He described them as the latest-type Russian jets — equipped with radar which the earlier types lacked.

Beavers Battle City for Water Rights

MARYVILLE, Mo. — The city of Maryville, a farmer and beavers all are embroiled in a controversy over water.

City officials contend the farmer's irrigation dam is cutting down on the city's water supply. "The dam is on the Williams Robb farm seven miles north of here on the 102 River."

City Atty. Montgomery Wilson notified Robbins Maryville had priority on the water and would ask him to stop irrigating unless the river level rose. Robbins asserted he had priority, and added: "It's the beavers."

He said the animals had built dams between his farm and Maryville and those dams can stop most of the water during low river stages.

Judge Brown Hearing Spa Libel Trial

HOT SPRINGS (AP) — Members of the Garland County Grand Jury doctored on the witness stand today that they were dominated by Circuit Judge C. Floyd Huff when they indicted Publisher Curtis Copeland on charges of criminal libel.

Similar testimony was given by Huff, who is named as the injured person in 12 of the 16 counts against Copeland; by members of the Jury Commission which selected the grand jury, and by Prosecuting Attorney H. A. Tucker.

Copeland's lawyers sought to have the indictment set aside on grounds that Huff had told the commission who to place on the grand jury and had influenced the jury to bring the charges.

Circuit Judge Lyle Brown of Hope, presiding in place of Huff, overruled the motion. He told similar action on several other defense maneuvers designed to avoid or delay trial of Copeland on the libel charges.

The preliminary legal sparring took all morning.

Selection of a jury for the trial was to begin this afternoon. Brown did not permit the grand jurors to testify to secret proceedings in the jury room.

Copeland was indicted on 16 counts of criminal libel against Judge Huff, the Rev. A. R. Puckett and E. S. Stephenson, all of Hot Springs. He is accused of publishing — Continued on Page Two

Springdale Must Pay Use Tax

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Arkansas Revenue Commissioner Vance Scarlock ruled today that the city of Springdale must pay $705 as use tax on materials and equipment purchased from 1950 to 1952.

Springdale City Attorney William L. Blair contended a municipality is not subject the two per cent tax. The use tax is similar to the sales tax and applies on purchases made out of the state.

Scarlock's ruling would be appealed.

The purchases in question included parking meters and street maintenance equipment.

To Poll Towns and Ask Gov. Cherry's Help

Faced with the fact that if Millwood dam is built on Little river near Saratoga without advance reservations for water rights no city or industry or farmer could ever obtain water from that reservoir in the future, a four-city conference here Monday night took steps toward making the necessary reservations.

It was a dinner meeting of the board of directors of Hope Chamber of Commerce at Hotel Barlow, with representatives attending also from Texarkana, Ashdown, and Prescott.

L. R. Matthias, executive vice-president of the Red River Valley association, Shreveport, was the featured speaker, accompanied here by Henry O'Neal, also of Shreveport.

Texarkana, Ark., was represented by its mayor, B. R. McCurley; and L. E. Gilliland, secretary-manager of Texarkana Chamber of Commerce.

From Ashdown were Jim D. Shaver and H. C. Routon.

Prescott was represented by Ernest Cox.

Ben Owen, president of the Hope chamber, presided over the dinner, which was attended by six other directors, Mayor John L. Wilson, Jr., A. H. Washburn, and Ray Lawrence, secretary-manager. Directors attending besides Mr. Owen were: Guy E. Baise, J. I. Liebling, Fred Gresham, Kenneth Ambrose, Frank Douglas, and Vincent Foster.

Mr. Matthias, introduced by Mr. Washburn, told the group that following the 1945 floods congress with record speed authorized construction of six reservoirs in the Red River valley. The Corps of Engineers gave No. 1 priority to Millwood, he continued, but opposition developing from the Dierks lumber & Coal Co. it was necessary to bypass Millwood for the time being and proceed with construction of the next project, the Texarkana reservoir.

Ready for Millwood
As the Texarkana reservoir will be completed this November, and the engineers have brought in a final report for Millwood over the Dierks company's opposition, it is time now to consider the local project, Mr. Matthias said. He pointed out that the opposition had stipulated they would abide by the result of a rehearing on the Millwood location, and that this rehearing had been held, and confirmed the engineers' verdict.

Mr. Matthias told the four-city group that the Eisenhower administration has advised the Corps of Engineers to get available projects in shape for a revival of a public works program as a buffer against a postwar depression — and especially as the foreign aid program diminishes and more and more tax funds are appropriated for works here at home.

The Red River Valley association executive came to the crux of the matter, however, when he began discussing what cities have to do if they expect to obtain some of the water that will be stored up in the Millwood reservoir.

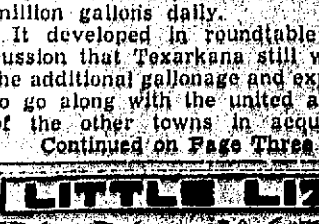

Must Act Early
Federal reservoirs are built to precise specifications, he warned, taking care of a definite flood problem, and none of their storage capacity can be drawn upon by cities or industries needing additional water supplies unless representations are made in time to enlarge the structure while still in the planning stage.

Mr. Matthias cited the case of the twin cities of Texarkana, which were late in applying for water rights at the new Texarkana reservoir. They wanted a maximum of 150 million gallons a day, but the reservoir being under construction before their demand was stated they were finally allowed only 13 million gallons daily.

It developed in roundtable discussion that Texarkana still wants the additional gallonage and expects to go along with the united action of the other towns in acquiring — Continued on Page Three water rights at Millwood. Continuing, Mr. Matthias explained to the four-city group that the proper procedure to reserve municipal, industrial or irrigation water at Millwood would be the formation of a regional water district embracing the interested cities of this area and get an estimate of the probable demand to the Corps of Engineers so their plans for flood control alone may be revised upward.

However, the Shreveport man went on to say that Arkansas folks should first determine whether this state has a law permitting the organization of a regional water district. He advised the four cities to send a joint delegation to Governor Francis Cherry requesting that a legal search be made by the attorney general.

If there isn't a law at present, Mr. Matthias said, the governor may certify to the federal administration that the cities have requested remedial legislation and he proposes to put it through at the next session of the General Assembly — and this would probably cover requirements, allowing the Corps of Engineers to advance with definite plans.

It was the consensus of the meeting that the southwestern towns definitely want water rights in the Millwood project, the cost as yet undetermined but probably spread over 100 years. Estimates quoted around the table put the cost of menu, and is immediately confused. He doesn't know whether to file suit against Parliament or the French prime minister. He's unsure who is to blame.

It isn't the French terms on the menu card that prove bad for his digestion. It's what is put upon his plate. "Sure," his stomach objects, "this isn't food!"

If all the menu cards in London were printed in English, it might set back Anglo-American relations a generation. Particularly with tourists visiting the city for the first time.

When a waiter brought a dish, such a tourist would say, "Look, I asked for roast beef and potatoes like it says on the menu. I don't know what that stuff is, but take it back and bring me what I ordered."

"But, sir, this is roast beef and potatoes," says the tourist, "but I still can't see. Gimme the manager, bud."

And the battle is on!

The difficulty is that no amateur student of English cooking can really recognize a dish at first sight, and sometimes even after tasting it only knows you more.

The English really know how to cook with gas on all four burners, but they don't know how to turn the gas off. They seem to use it to take the place of central heating.

The first principle of English cooking is to keep the food on the stove until all its identifying characteristics have been removed — and the room is warm. Then drain off the top layer of water and serve.

There is no other known principle to English cooking.

The nation that has survived this culinary technique is certainly one of the world's hardiest breeds. But the average tourist has been through no such long test of stamina. He is just wistfully yearning for food that looks like food — not the Tower of London, collapsed in a watery grave.

If Sir Alexander gets London restaurants to print menus in English

Texarkana's new reservoir contract at one and a half cents per hundred thousand gallons, not counting the additional cost of installing pipelines and bringing water from the reservoir to town. Even so, the Texarkans estimated that switching over from deep wells to reservoir water might eventually save the twin cities as much as $150,000 a year.

President Owen said the board of directors of the local chamber had named Mr. Washburn and Mr. Lieb-long as a committee to work with Mayor Wilson and officials of the other cities in planning the appearance before Governor Cherry. The committee will hold a regional conference of municipal officials in Texarkana next month and formulate plans for the visit to the governor.

Donna Reed, brown-haired, hazel-eyed young star, brings out her coloring with short beige evening gown and pink jacket (right). Her fresh young prettiness needs little make-up. When she does wear it, she uses two shades of a liquid foundation, a darker one for shadowing (center) and a lighter one for highlighting. She uses light rachel powder on her fair skin, dark Depth is the newest thing about fall handbag fashions. It's depth that makes for harmony with the slender fall silhouette. Closed bucket bag (upper left) is in antique amber calf, has a vibrant color tone. Grained leather satchel with slim handles (upper center) is in maple-toned calf, is lined in honey-color smooth leather. Typical of larger sizes in dressy bags for late day is elongated, sleek box (upper right) in red chiffon velvet. This is lined in blonde leather. Oversized deep bucket (lower left) is in rich silver gray mouton fur with longer than average handle in black leather. French purse (lower center) is leopard-dyed rabbit, is worn opened out, not folded over as in previous years. This is a smart bag for dressy daytime or late day wear. Dramatic satchel in giant size (lower right) is made of black wool yarn, has gross point design of single huge rose in varied shades of pink and spray of green leaves in two tones.

DOROTHY DIX

Incompatible!

Dear Miss Dix: I'm a married woman of 30, my husband is 33 and we have four children. We've been married eight years, were separated the first two — then for two more because we just didn't get along. I'm very unhappy because of my husband's ways. He won't sit down and talk things over, nor is he ever very companionable. He's a hard worker, a good provider, loves the children, doesn't drink, gamble and certainly has no thought of another woman. But we just aren't compatible. Consequently, I am very lonely. We've spoken of separation, but nothing has been done about it.

I've been writing my brother-in-law for the past year. He's in service, and I liked him a lot even before I married his brother. Since we've been corresponding, I realize I'm in love with him. I know I could be happy with him. Should I break up with my husband and marry his brother or try to stick it out.

LORNA N.

Answer: To be honest, which came first? Your attraction to your brother-in-law, or your dissatisfaction with your husband? You are fortunate enough to have a man with all the qualities most women desire in a husband, one who is not in love with him is that YOU no longer love HIM, because you happen to have developed an infatuation for someone else. Are you being quite fair? With a good husband, a fine family, and a comfortable home, your job is to weld the ingredients into a happy unit. Instead, you are trying to be the disruptive influence. Perhaps your husband isn't as companionable as you'd like him to be, but that's not a major fault—as any woman with a drinking, philandering, or abusive mate will tell you. You have four lively youngsters to take up the slack of companionship. Turn your energies to maintaining a home for them instead of evasively seeking ways to break up their lives.

Dear Miss Dix: I am 19, and have been married for two years. My husband is 22. He works for his parents in a restaurant and is very attentive to the customers but when we'd better carry his reform one step farther and put some cookbooks in the kitchens, too, preferably printed in America. Otherwise all a visitor can order and feel safe about is fresh strawberries. Most English chefs can tell a fresh strawberry from a potato — and hesitate to boil it.

I go into the place he scarcely notices me. I don't want to break up my home because of my baby, but I am getting very discouraged.

N.H.

Answer: If you expect your husband to make a living for you and your son, you must realize that business comes first. Apparently you expect him to drop everything else when you enter the restaurant and devote himself to you. You must begin to face the fact that by moving in at 17, you sacrificed a good deal of the romantic attention of teenage boys.

Your husband, too, is very young, and you shouldn't expect too much of him. He's doing a fine job of supporting his little family and you should give him better co-operation.

Dear Miss Dix: I'm a high-school senior, and live next door to a senior, one of the most popular boys in school. How can I get to know him? I know his younger brother and sister, but Ty never notices me.

S.D.

Answer: After the through job you've done of trying to attract the young man's attention, with notable lack of success, why not quit and let the next move be his? Remember that almost every girl in school is attracted to this handsome man-of-the-year and I am afraid your chances of dating him are rather slim. Perhaps you may glean some encouragement from Elphoth Parkington's "Seventeen," in which the plain little girl—end door began as a pest to the hero, but eventually married him.

Door Handle Brings Trouble Aplenty

MUSKOGEE, Okla., (U)—Nichard C. Nardin, 20, was cruising down U. S. Highway 64 yesterday with his arm out the window.

Suddenly, his auto and another sideswiped. The door handle from the other car pierced Nardin's arm. The impact tore the handle from the door and stuck in his arm until Nardin finally stopped his car.

Trooper Gordon Schule said a motorist stopped to aid Nardin and the injured man fell out of the car when the door was opened. The door handle dropped from his arm to the pavement.

He was hospitalized in serious condition.

Workers in U. S. bituminous coal surface mines produce an average of 10 tons per man-day.

Empire State Bldg. Death Trap for Birds

NEW YORK (U)—An early morning haze plus a gale wind sent 300 migratory birds crashing to death today against the Empire State Building.

About a thousand other feathered migrants flying over at the same time missed the haze-shrouded upper floors of the building, flocked safely to the street and perched on building terraces. Their species was not determined.

A similar combination of weather conditions killed a large number of birds four years ago.

One other bird soared into the city's news. A strange-looking specimen with a two-foot wingspread and rufous back flew into a liquor shop and noisily chattered a stack of bottles of Scotch whisky.

There was no haze or breeze, however, and ASPCA agents quickly caught the lost flier and hauled it off to Bronx Zoo for identification.

Beria Added to Soviet Purge List

LONDON (U)—The premier of the Georgian Soviet Republic—born-land of Joseph Stalin—was ousted by police boss Lavrenty P. Beria — was added today to the growing list of Soviet purge victims. The first secretary of the republic's Communist Party also was fired.

The government radio in the republic's capital, Tiflis, announced that Premier B. M. Bakhradze had been replaced by "Comrade Galatishvili" and that "Comrade D. D. Merkulava" was dismissed as party secretary.

It was the second shakeup in the strategic Georgian Republic in three months and part of a continuing Kremlin purge of the subordinate republic governments begun after Beria's arrest was announced last June.

The radio said Bakhradze was ousted by a decree of the Presidium of the Supreme Soviet of the republic.

That the Kremlin apparently considered the change of great importance was indicated by the broadcast's note that "Comrade Shatalin, secretary of the Central Committee of the U.S.S.R. Communist Party took part in the work of the Georgian plenary session" at which the premier was kicked out.

Tuesday's broadcast said the

Gales Lash, British, French Coasts

LONDON (U)—Gales up to 80 miles an hour kept the eastern Atlantic boiling today and spread a trail of damage across the British Isles.

Home-bound American tourists aboard the liner Ile de France saw a thrill-packed rescue of 24 seamen from the stricken 6,224-ton Liberator freighter Greenville. One man was lost and the body of another was left aboard the sinking ship.

In British waters, a lifeboat plucked seven men to safety from a sinking lightsail. And a one-legged yachtsman swam four miles to safety, pushing his artificial leg before him on a mattress.

The Ile de France, bound for New York, reported she had to issue an "abandon ship or we leave you" ultimatum to the skipper of the Liberator freighter 700 miles off the West Coast of England.

Radio messages to the Coast Guard built up this picture of the rescue:

The Greenville lay practically on her side, wallowing out of control in waves 400 feet high.

Despite angry protests from his crew, the captain at first refused to abandon ship.

Then came the ultimatum from the Ile de France.

Heroic Mother Dies Saving Children

ST. LOUIS (U)—A heroic Negro mother saved three of her children in a fire at their apartment building today and then perished with a 2-year-old son as she tried to rescue him.

The victims were Mrs. Myrtle Anderson, 23, and her son, Sylvester. They were found dead of smoke suffocation in their third-floor apartment.

Police said Mrs. Anderson was trapped when she reentered the apartment in search of the boy who died with her.

Earlier she tossed the other children from a third-floor window into the arms of her husband, George Anderson, 30, as he stood on the roof of a smaller adjoining building, police said.

The rescued children were Stanley, 1, George Jr., 4, and Ollie May Anderson, 5.

The father was treated for cuts at a hospital.

INJURIES FATAL

MEMPHIS (U)—A 15-year-old Moro, Ark., girl, Emma Sue Roland, died late last night at a Memphis hospital of injuries received when she was run over by a tractor-drawn trailer.

The accident occurred Saturday near her home.

Lee County Sheriff Courtney Langston, said the girl, one of 12 children, stepped between the tractor and trailer just as the driver started off.

The victim was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mickie Roland.

work of the Council of Ministers, which Bakhradze headed, and of the party bureau headed by Merkulava had been "unsatisfactory." It also quoted criticism of those two bodies by the Georgian newspaper Zarya Vostoka, which charged they failed to carry out orders from superiors.

It was obvious from the announcement that Bakhradze lost his job because of failure to carry out a housecleaning of Beria elements.

20 Americans Handed Over to Indians

PANMUNJOM (U)—The Communists said today at least 20 Americans and Britons and more than 300 Koreans refused repatriation in the big Korean prisoner exchange. They are scheduled to be turned over Thursday to Indian custodial troops.

A Red correspondent, Wilfred Burchett of the Paris L'Homanite, officially put the number at 23 Americans, one Briton and 335 South Koreans. Burchett said they are being held in an unguarded camp at Kaesong.

By terms of the armistice, reluctant POWs will be held 90 days in the demilitarized zone while interviewers try to persuade them to change their minds about going home.

Answering a U. N. Command request for a breakdown by nationality of captives they claim refused repatriation, the Reds reported in a joint secretariat session of the Military Armistice Commission that "more than 300 are Koreans. Over 20 are non-Koreans, of which all are American except one British."

Although in round numbers, this report by Liu Yon, North Korean representative, was the most detailed breakdown of unrepatriated allied POWs the Reds so far have provided.

Americans returned in the exchange have told of fellow POWs who elected to stay behind.

Burchett said the Americans at Kaesong had a dog mascot which they had named "Non Repat."

The 300-plus captives the Communists say refused repatriation would just begin to account for more than 900 Americans and 2,500 other Allied soldiers whose whereabouts the U. N. Command has demanded of the Reds.

Horse Turns Into a Real Racer

BALTIMORE (U)—Harold Brown rented a bony old brown horse yesterday to do some huckstering in 45 streets of Baltimore.

During the rounds, the sleepy cart-puller suddenly became a high-speed racer, "look off in a gallop."

"His head was up, his tail was straight out behind him and he was going down the street like Citation," Brown said.

Seven blocks later an uphill street and a lost wheel stopped the would-be racing champion. In his wake he left eight banged and dented automobiles.

Police sent the bruised horse back to his owner, Frederick Sipos.

Man Killed by Rock in Tunnel

VAN BUREN (U)—Kenneth Pettus, 43, of Midland, was crushed to death last night when a large rock fell on him in a tunnel being constructed under the Arkansas River between here and Fort Smith.

Pettus, night foreman on the project, had gone on duty shortly before the accident occurred. No one else was injured.

The tunnel is for a new water line to Fort Smith.

Weight of the rock was estimated at a ton or more.

Pettus is survived by his widow, a daughter; two sons; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Mace Pettus of Midland, and a sister.

VELDE EYES SENATE SEAT

WASHINGTON (U)—Rep. Velde (R-Ill.) said yesterday there is a "pretty lively possibility" he may seek the Republican nomination next year for the Senate seat now held by Sen. Douglas (D-Ill.).

Stay Beautiful ...by avoiding Monthly Look

No toll-free signs on her face because cramps, jitter, bother her no more. Why look older, worn out, jittery for 2 or 3 days each month? Why let everybody know your "time" is here? Thousands of smart girls and women take a little CARDUI each day to help build new energy and reduce their "time" look. They look better, feel less and less misery each month. It's unlikely that any two head coaches teach football exactly alike, for every one of them has an idea or trick of his own.

When it comes to sheer originality in attendance, however, Elmer Smith of Southern State College at Magnolia takes the cake.

Some of Elmer's gimmicks have had a lot of publicity as his 1952 team won 26 of their 30 games. One of these is his "no one" formation, in which one back runs to the center and the others are placed in a single wing alignment with a fullback, a fullback and a wingback.

Smith says it's a combination of every formation in football. "I figure there's something good in every formation and I've tried to put all the good of all of them into mine."

Then, there are Elmer's lead practice drills. The theory is that, after practicing in shoes weighted down with the lead, a player will have a speedy, light-footed feeling in a game when he's wearing normal cleats.

At first Smith modeled the lead cleats in his own garage for his players. Now he has a flourishing sideline manufacturing them for numerous other teams, including some of the big ones of the game.

Another Smith trick is a practice technique to develop defensive skill in his players. In this drill, 14 of his golden men form a circle. Another man is placed in the center. He's the defender. One by one in rapid fire order those in the circle dash in to block the defensive man. His job is to fight them off and stay on his feet.

"That's the way they come at you in a game," Smith boasters to the lone wolf in the middle.

When the rotation of mayhem has been completed, another man goes to the center of the circle and everyone on the squad has been in what Smith appropriately describes the "Hell Hole." Most of the defenders get killed up but good, though, amazingly, some of them keep their feet all the way.

Football talent seems to run in some families. For instance, the University of Arkansas has had 16 Jordan twins, Clyde and Cliff Van Sickle, Clyde and Tracy Scott, Bill and Jim Jordan, the many Coleman brothers and the Thomassons of recent current days.

But it's doubtful that this family feud can be beaten. Lynn Nix, Henderson's finest end this season, has his nephews also playing leading grid roles at the same time he is.

One is Edsel Nix, a small but valuable end at Arkansas; another is Doyle Nix, a first-string end at SMU.

The other nephews are in high school competition. They are Bobby Lott, an all-Big Seven end and Tommy Lott, a guard, at Texas-Arkansas; Johnny Nix, Hope back; and Ron Harris, a back at North Heights Junior High in Texas.

And speaking of football families, the twin sons of Jim Benton, now coach at Arkansas A&M, are doing junior high grid duty at Pine Bluff this fall.

Loyalty Oath Controversy Discounted

CHICAGO (UP) — Democratic National Chairman Stephen A. Mitchell today discounted the so-called "loyalty oath" controversy within his party and declined to pick a fight with conservative Democrats.

He also suggested a sort of "loyalty prize committee" to study the performance of investigating commissions and then rate them for their constituents.

In a network television appearance yesterday, Mitchell went on to declare that a "loyalty oath" was not a requirement of the party, but an office to glorify himself or his political ideas.

The party chairman appeared on the TV show (NBC) "American Forum of the Air" and answered questions asked by members of the studio audience.

He said the question of the much-disputed "loyalty oath" was not at the 1952 Democratic national convention had been "exaggerated beyond all proportions" by observers who don't know what they are talking about.

The Democrats held a two-day national rally here a week ago, and came away shouting harmony after Mitchell and Southern leaders agreed to set up an advisory committee to study the loyalty pledge, which required convention delegates to do their best to get the national ticket on state ballots.

Mitchell said he was sure party leaders would not have agreed to sign the problem over to an advisory committee if they had not expected agreement.

Returned PW in Auto Accident

JONESBORO, Ark. — Sgt. Kenneth McKillop, a returned prisoner of war, arrived here yesterday afternoon and had ridden two blocks in a friend's automobile when the vehicle and another collided.

No one was injured. McKillop and his mother, Mrs. Ernest C. Dean, stopped here to see friends en route from San Antonio to St. Louis, where the family now lives.

McKillop lived here when he entered service. He was taken prisoner in Korea on Nov. 27, 1950, and was repatriated last Aug. 23. His mother and stepfather moved to St. Louis last February.

ARKANSAS AMBASSADORS AT WORK

Bill Cooper, Arkansas Traveler from Fort Smith, presents the Arkansas state flag to Governor Lee B. Emerson in ceremony at the state capital in Montpelier, Vt. Bill, his mother and father are touring Vermont in a return vacation gesture to tell the Vermonters of the wonders of Arkansas and to invite them to spend their vacations here. Young Bill was quite proud of the Arkansas flag and carried it in an envelope on the plane when he left Little Rock for his first airplane ride—and his long vacation in New England.

South Korean Assembly Meets

SEOUL, P. — The South Korean National Assembly today met in Seoul for the first time in three years.

One hundred ten assemblymen of the 182-man legislature attended the first session held at the war-torn capital since the outbreak of the Korean War in June, 1950.

President Syngman Rhee did not attend or send a message.

An assembly spokesman said today's meeting was "only the continuance of the 16th session and there is not much new."

The legislature met during the war years in the provisional capital of Pusan.

Honest Farmer Returns $3,278

BALTIMORE, P. — George Gercak, who put all his cash in one basket and then sold the basket for $3,278 back thanks to the honesty of a farmer.

The 63-year-old Gercak had reported last Friday the money was in a bag on a pile of bushel baskets in his produce store and apparently was left in one of 33 baskets he sold to a stranger.

Fred Schelke, Randallstown, Md. farmer, showed up at a police station with the bag of money shortly after reading of Gercak's plight. He said the cash was among the baskets when he unloaded them and he figured the man who lost the money would tell the newspapers.

So he watched the papers—and Gercak got his money back.

Sheriff Hopes to Get Another Auto

JASPER, Tex. — Jasper County Sheriff Thomas M. Mixon hopes to have an automobile again Saturday.

The county commissioners sold the sheriff's car about a month ago in an economy move. They said they would allow eight cents a mile expense money but from now on the sheriff would have to provide his own car.

Mixon said he didn't have money to buy a car. But businessmen here started a fund-raising campaign to get the sheriff back on wheels.

Two cars collided at an intersection trying to avoid the speeding vehicle and a third driver jumped a curb to get out of the way.

Williams finally stopped the youth at gunpoint and asked him why he tried to flee.

"I was told that if I got one more ticket I would lose my license," the youth replied.

The population of the Baja (lower) California peninsula has doubled in less than 10 years.

Funeral home attendants said a special casket will be ordered from a local firm, but they haven't decided yet on the size.

State police, filling in for the absent force, reported no crime—not even an automobile accident.

Russian Atom Ace Reported With Beria

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (UP) — A man described as Russia's top energy official was reported to be in a "deep southern country" with a man who claims to be Lavrenti P. Beria, the San Diego Union said today.

The newspaper said earlier that it received a report "via Mexico City" that a man claiming to be Beria had sought asylum in the United States through an "intermediary" who has been in contact with the newspaper.

Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R-Wis.) said yesterday that he is checking reports that the ousted Soviet leader has escaped from Russia but that he is "not convinced the man is Beria."

In a copyrighted story today, the Union said "it can be confirmed that the intermediary has reported talking several times with the self-styled Beria and another man described as the Russian counterpart of the chairman of the U. S. Atomic Energy Commission."

The Russian atomic program was directed under Beria as hope minister.

The newspaper said it "now knows not only the limitation of the alleged intermediary dealing with the man claiming to be Beria, but also the town and the hotel—even the telephone number where the intermediary can be reached at any moment."

Convict Kills Fellow Prisoner

WYNNEVILLE, Tex. — A state prison inmate serving a 99-year robbery sentence is charged with murder as a result of a fatal stabbing at the Wynne State Prison Farm yesterday.

The charge was filed against Charles G. Doolow, 44, after the death of Marcus Lewis Dendard, 50, Fort Worth.

Dendard, serving 12 years for burglary from Tarrant County, was stabbed with a homemade knife in one of the tanks (dormitories) set aside for the physically handicapped or ailing.

Crime and Police Take a Holiday

SALISBURY, Mass. — Crime took a holiday yesterday while Police Capt. Benjamin Sturgis and Miss Wanda Woron of Newburyport were married.

The entire police force took off despite heavy Sunday traffic in the ocean front town.

State police, filling in for the absent force, reported no crime—not even an automobile accident.
